I hope you had a wonderful Thanksgiving! On to the last month of 2024. December already. Yikes! As we look ahead to 2025, I want to hear what you want to learn, where you want to explore, and what skills you want to sharpen. I've had requests for photo tours along the Bold Coast of Maine, an expanded photo tour of Acadia National Park, lighthouse crawls, an Iceland photo tour, and new astrolandscape multi-day workshops in and around New England. I'd love to hear your thoughts and aspirations. Please reply to this email so I can tailor the 2025 photography adventures to your preferences.

A big thanks to all of you who have preordered my book! Night Shades - A Guide to Photography After Dark. Those of you who ordered in November will receive your books next week. To celebrate the season, here's another coupon. Yeah, I am on a roll.

I was in Scotland in mid-November. I visited the highlands and the Isle of Skye. The landscape of Scotland is a marvel of moody scenes and rugged beauty. I am sifting through the thousands of images I shot. Here's one I've processed so far. As a Monty Python and castle fiend extraordinaire, photographing the Castle Stalker was a double whammy of delight! This castle was in the last scene of Monty Python and the Holy Grail (aka The Castle Aaaaarrrrrggghhh). Color me giddy!

Stay well and I hope to see you soon!

Clear skies,

Silvana
